

Kaime Sandoe

Humanities teacher Chris Becker says that LEAF senior Kaime Sandoe “truly does embody the entrepreneurial spirit. From starting his own Youtube channel to fearlessly traveling to random places, he is already on the path to creating an entirely unique way to make a living. We’ll just have to wait to see what that actually looks like.” Kaime will begin his journey in the fall at the University of New Hampshire. His interests are varied, urban planner, lawyer, youtuber, or living on a sailboat are all potential paths he may take.

Kaime’s favorite memory of his time at LEAF is the trip to Montreal that the French class took.

Kaime wants to give a shout out to STEM teacher Rob Leinau and humanities teacher Chris Becker who are both “really good teachers who have helped me learn a lot!”

Kaime’s advice for future LEAF students is “enjoy it while it lasts!”
